ESG in Practice: Leveraging Technology for Compliance and Transparency

Explore how advanced tools are transforming ESG obligations into strategic opportunities. From automation and analytics to AI-enhanced due diligence, this session demonstrates how technology streamlines compliance and elevates legal oversight.

10:30 Case Study:

Navigating ESG Targets in an Uncertain World

- Omnibus Directive 2025: What has changed? Where are we now? What can we expect on CSRD, SFDR, CSDDD? Is less ESG reporting actually good for society?
- Defense Readiness Omnibus: ESG target or ESG carve-out? Reconciling two seemingly competing goals.
- ESG Targets: Can we measure our 2050 trajectories accurately with current methodology and data? What assumptions do we need?

Regulatory Compliance and Risk

As more and more sustainability and ESG regulations are enacted, businesses are realising that while the topic of reporting has been dominating discussions, wider compliance requirements have been quickly accumulating at thejurisdictional levels. More and more businesses are now starting to switch focus to a more strategic overview where sustainability objectives are becoming embedded into working practices and regulatory compliance lays the foundations for reporting as the output of these strategic activities. Understanding the risks associated with compliance requirements is a key component of a more strategic overview.

Mary Foley
Expert Services Strategy Director
Enhesa

12:00 Case Study:

Enhancing ESG Commitments through Strategic Contracting

As ESG considerations become increasingly integral to business operations, contracting plays a pivotal role in ensuring companies uphold their sustainability commitments. This session will provide practical strategies for legal professionals to navigate the complexities of evolving ESG regulations, create transparent contractual frameworks, and drive impactful sustainability outcomes. Attendees will gain actionable insights on how to use contracts as a powerful tool for advancing corporate ESG objectives and minimizing risks associated with compliance ambiguity.

Melanie de Andrade
Senior Legal Counsel ELDS & Sustainability
ABB

12:30 Case Study:

Navigating the EU Sustainability Omnibus Regulation: Legal Implications for Corporate ESG Compliance *

This session would explore the evolving legal landscape introduced by the Omnibus Regulation, highlight key challenges for multinational organizations, and offer practical guidance on preparing for its implementation—especially in terms of governance, disclosure, and due diligence.

Silke Goldberg

Herbert Smith Freehills

13:00 Business Lunch

ADVANCING LEGAL STRATEGIES FOR SUSTAINABLE IMPACT

14:00 Case Study:

Due Diligence in the Downstream Value Chain – From OECD Guidelines to EU CSDDD

This presentation will provide an overview of due diligence in the downstream value chain, tracing its evolution from the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises to the recent developments surrounding the European Union's Corporate Sustainability Due Diligence Directive (CSDDD). While existing policies, such as the German Supply Chain Due Diligence Act, have primarily focused on upstream issues, it is essential to recognize the growing attention of addressing downstream responsibilities in corporate sustainability practices.
We will examine the key principles and frameworks established by the OECD. The presentation will then delve into the implications of the EU CSDDD, which aims to enhance corporate accountability and promote sustainable business practices across Europe. Attendees will gain insights into potential practical challenges and opportunities that companies face in implementing effective due diligence measures, including identifying and mitigating human rights and environmental risks.

Empowering Legal Teams to Lead ESG: Tools, Insights & Implementation Support

This session highlights how solution providers can support legal departments in operationalizing ESG strategy. The sponsor will present practical tools, case studies, and services that help legal teams streamline ESG risk assessments, meet evolving disclosure demands, and drive cross-functional impact with confidence.

09:50 Case Study:

Double Materiality and the Role of Legal: Navigating through Complexity

- Double Materiality lays at the heart of ESG. In some jurisdictions, conducting a double materiality assessment is even mandatory to fulfill requirements.
- In a fragmented geo-political landscape, double materiality efforts underpinning strategic, operational, and reporting efforts are subjected to increasingly high-degrees of legal uncertainty, cross-jurisdictional, and disputes risks.
- Legal risk mitigation strategies need to be attuned with novel legal interpretation techniques, emerging regulatory frameworks, and broader societal trends.

Gabriel Webber Ziero
Lead ESG Legal, Senior Legal Counsel, Director
Swiss Re

10:30 Case Study:

ESG Fragmentation in the EU: Navigating Directive Transposition and Local Regulatory Complexity

- The session would explore how legal teams are managing:
- Divergent national implementation of EU ESG directives
- Overlap and conflict with national ESG regulations
- Legal risk across jurisdictions due to inconsistent enforcement
- The added complexity for U.S.-based companies navigating ESG on both sides of the Atlantic

Carolina Armada
Associate Legal Director for Iberia
Boston Scientific

11:00 Morning Coffee and Networking Break

11:30 Case Study:

Balancing Sustainability & Fair Competition: Antitrust Considerations in Sustainability Collaborations

This session will explore the intersection of sustainability collaboration and antitrust compliance, focusing on how companies can pursue ambitious ESG goals without breaching competition laws. It will examine how trade associations and industry-wide initiatives can support the green transition while remaining compliant, how to structure standardization efforts responsibly, and how to manage legal risks when partnering with competitors on sustainability projects.

Marc Knapen
Head of Legal Compliance Markets, ESG, Ethics Office & Antitrust
Philips

12:00 Case Study:

Navigating ESG Liability: Dispute Resolution and Litigation Risk Management

In this session we will explore how companies may become exposed to ESG claims, from actions brought by activist organisations to change corporate behaviour, to damages claims brought by investors or contractual counterparties. We will also consider how companies may become unintentionally exposed to such claims and how to minimise the risk of ESG litigation.

Richard Power

14:40 Case Study:

Stakeholder Management and ESG Shareholder Activism

- Shareholder activism has always been a relevant issue for companies, but in recent years a new variety has emerged and taken hold in the form of ESG shareholder activism.
- Activists with an ESG agenda e.g. seek to put proposals to a shareholder vote at annual shareholder meetings.
- Increasing stakeholder pressure poses great challenges for navigating and managing all stakeholders of a company
- This session will delve into legal challenges around multistakeholder management in cases of ESG activism and how to balance reputational and regulatory risks with meaningful engagement.
