Jurisdictional Juggling: Managing Multinational Patent Litigation

Effective global patent enforcement or defence demands more than being a legal expert, it requires strategic orchestration across jurisdictions, disciplines, and stakeholders. This presentation will explore how to craft and execute a global litigation strategy that is legally correct, clear, consistent, and properly co-ordinated. Success hinges on the ability to align diverse interests including commercial, legal and regulatory, while managing a network of local counsel, affiliates, partners, and intelligence providers. The key is to ensure each jurisdiction supports the broader strategy, avoiding internal contradictions and maximising impact. From drafting primers, co-ordinating experts, undertaking experiments and assisting settlement efforts, this session will highlight the tools and tactics that turn complexity into clarity. Whether defending or enforcing, managing global IP litigation is a high-stakes exercise that requires clients and their trusted advisors to keep all the moving parts in play—balancing legal strategy, commercial goals, and jurisdictional nuances.
